STUDENT APOLOGETICS CONFERENCE

“What if I’m wrong?” There are times when we feel confident about our convictions. But there are other times when we encounter doubts that leave us wondering if we got it all wrong. This has caused many to “deconstruct” their faith.

If you can’t give a “why” to your faith, you won’t be able to give a “why not” to your doubts. In other words, if you don’t have a Christianity anchored in what’s true, you will always be at the mercy of your doubts.

Whether we realize it or not, everyone has a worldview. It’s your set of beliefs about the way the world actually is. It’s your picture of reality. This belief system helps you answer the big questions of life: Where did I come from? What’s wrong with the world? Is there a solution? Why am I here?

Christianity is a worldview, but it’s not the only worldview. It has competition. So how do we know which worldview, if any, is actually true?

The answer isn’t complicated: Check to see if it matches up with reality.

Many students are under the impression that Christianity is make-believe for grown-ups. Stand to Reason presents the Reality Conference, which is changing that by using our greatest ally: Reality. Christianity isn’t a made-up story divorced from reality; it is the true story of reality.

We will equip students to navigate their doubts by seeking answers to their toughest questions. Because when you seek answers, you find truth.
